12. OFFICE ANESTHESIA QUESTIONNAIRE

If you administer only local anesthesia in your office, you may skip this section and go to page 13. If you administer any anesthesia other than local in your office or private suite, you must complete this section.

A. Anesthesia Training/Education

- i. Describe your anesthesia training. _____

- ii. List Continuing Education courses you have taken in the last 5 years that are related to the use of anesthesia in an office setting.

- iii. During the last 5 years, have you participated in an office evaluation program performed by your peers or a risk management organization? YES NO

B. Methods Utilized

Indicate the types of anesthesia you administer. Also, indicate the number of procedures performed under each type of anesthesia annually as well as the five most commonly performed procedures.

TYPES OF ANESTHESIA		NUMBER OF PROCEDURES	FIVE MOST COMMON PROCEDURES
Minimal Sedation (Anxiolysis)	<input type="checkbox"/> Y <input type="checkbox"/> N
Moderate Sedation/Analgesia (Conscious Sedation)	<input type="checkbox"/> Y <input type="checkbox"/> N
Deep Sedation/Analgesia	<input type="checkbox"/> Y <input type="checkbox"/> N
General Anesthesia	<input type="checkbox"/> Y <input type="checkbox"/> N

Minimal Sedation (Anxiolysis) is a drug-induced state during which patients respond normally to verbal commands. Although cognitive function and coordination may be impaired, ventilatory and cardiovascular functions are unaffected.

Moderate Sedation/Analgesia (Conscious Sedation) is a drug-induced depression of consciousness during which patients respond purposefully to verbal commands, either alone or accompanied by light tactile stimulation. No interventions are required to maintain a patent airway, and spontaneous ventilation is adequate. Cardiovascular function is usually maintained.

Deep Sedation/Analgesia is a drug-induced depression of consciousness during which patients cannot be easily aroused but respond purposefully following repeated or painful stimulation. The ability to independently maintain ventilatory function may be impaired. Patients may require assistance in maintaining a patent airway, and spontaneous ventilation may be inadequate. Cardiovascular function is usually maintained.

General Anesthesia is a drug-induced loss of consciousness during which patients are not arousable, even by painful stimulation. The ability to independently maintain ventilatory function is often impaired. Patients often require assistance in maintaining a patent airway, and positive pressure ventilation may be required because of depressed spontaneous ventilation or drug-induced depression of neuromuscular function. Cardiovascular function may be impaired.
